A Chinese who demands rough play at a brothel in Ikebukuro. They were HIV-infected people trying to take the Japanese with them. I will continue to introduce it in the first part of the article , "More than 1,000 people in Ikebukuro, Tokyo are in danger of developing AIDS ."

"Deliberately confused"

The staff started an investigation to ascertain the truth. Under the guise of a campaign aimed at all customers, 10,000 yen discount coupons were distributed only to three suspicious Chinese men.

Then, in early August, the man who introduced himself as Yuen at the beginning of the first part of the article made a reservation at the restaurant. When he showed up at the hotel on the day of the reservation, he was sternly questioned.

"First, he revealed that he was bisexual, and said that the other two were friends. When I asked him about HIV infection, he was so selfish and began to talk frighteningly." (Male staff member)

It is said that they held an orgy once a month with students from Southeast Asia, mainly Chinese. There were about 10 men and women in total.

However, earlier this year, one of the members was tested after returning to China and found to be infected with HIV. All three of them were also tested and found positive.

malicious atrocities

"According to him, 'I was in despair, but I couldn't control my sexual desire. So I hid the fact that I was infected with HIV, and searched for a brothel that could be used by Chinese people and where I could have sex.' rice field.

So, when I consulted with a man who runs an erotic esthetic salon and is familiar with the customs of the area, he introduced me to our shop." (Male staff)

A man named Yuen told two others about this, and one of them started saying:

"Anyway, I'll be in Japan for another year, and after graduating from graduate school, I have to go back to China. There's no good customs in my hometown, so let's have fun while we're at it. We've been infected with HIV. There's nothing we can do about it. Let's just spread it around through customs and take a lot of Japanese people with us."

Thus, the Chinese went on a rampage.

They plan their strategy first. We nominated women who were popular because of their appearance and play content, and shared information such as who was likely to transmit HIV to other customers and whether they accepted the act without contraceptives.

After that, for several months, he nominated a woman who had decided to be a target and continued to perform the actual act. There was a clear malice to transmit HIV beyond the release of libido.

stolen future

And that selfish act robbed the women of their future.

Like Karen, who appeared in the first part, Mirei (pseudonym, 24 years old), who was scheduled to graduate from an art university in Tokyo next spring, was also a victim.

"Once you start sex industry, it's very difficult to lose touch with it. It's easy to earn more than 100,000 yen a day. I'm originally from Yamaguchi Prefecture, and my goal is to enter an art college in Tokyo after graduating from high school. However, in a single-mother household, of course there was no room for that.

So, for two years after graduating from high school, while working at a temporary agency, I went to an art college prep school, paid for tuition, and saved up an entrance fee. After that, I passed the entrance exam to art university. However, it was impossible to pay the tuition fees for art university with just a normal part-time job. That's why I continued the customs even after I entered school."

It is said that she started working at the store where the incident occurred from October 2021 while moving around downtown areas such as Gotanda and Shinjuku. Mirei continued.

"At the time, I was obsessed with earning money. I was busy with my graduation work at art school, and my expenses were piling up. And the Chinese customers were really good. They wanted to act live, and the play was sloppy, but they were happy to pay the bills. The same was true for the Chinese who gave me HIV.

That's why, even if I was forced to drink semen, I could endure it. Such perverts will repeat if you properly satisfy their desires. But I had no idea it was to transmit HIV. I really have nothing but regrets."

Infection spreads

- <https://archive.ph/yTDo7>

Knowing that you are infected with HIV and knowingly passing it on to a third party is a crime of injury. In fact, in 2017, an incident occurred in Italy in which a man who concealed his HIV status and intentionally had sexual relations with more than 50 women infected a total of 32 people. He was then sentenced to 24 years in prison.

However, this time, even though Karen and Mirei agreed, they were unable to consult with the police or lawyers because they were guilty of providing illegal services.

What is most worrisome is the possibility that this incident will lead to the spread of HIV in Japan. "The risk of HIV spreading at sex clubs is substantial. Rather than the speed and scale of the spread, it is more likely that infected people will unknowingly transmit HIV to customers and other third parties while they are asymptomatic. It can be said that the situation is alarming."
(Mr. Masahiro Kami, President of the Institute of Medical Governance)

Karen and Mirei had been going to work for six months since January, when they had their first Chinese customers. In both cases, they had an average of 5 or more customers per day at a pace of 3 to 5 times a week, so the two of them had more than 1000 customers in total.

It is also possible that the customers are using a different sex shop. In addition, you may have sexual intercourse with your lover, wife, mistress, etc. without realizing it. Most people don't realize it yet, but there's a good chance that the HIV epidemic is starting to spread beneath the surface.

"Ever since I found out I was infected with HIV, I haven't been able to sleep properly. I was planning to quit the sex industry when I had enough money. I wanted to get married normally and have children. But I knew that I was infected with HIV. Is there anyone who understands and will marry me..." (Karen, mentioned above)

The number of infected people in China is 10 times that of Japan

A small saving grace is that, thanks to advances in treatment technology, people taking anti-HIV drugs can maintain their immunity and not risk infecting others with HIV.

“Although the virus in the body cannot be completely eliminated, the development of new drugs has made it possible to reduce the incidence of AIDS by almost 100%.In addition, HIV treatment is covered by insurance. If you obtain a person's certificate, you will be able to further reduce your out-of-pocket expenses, and you will be able to live your life without worrying about your finances.”

In recent years, the spread of HIV infection has become a social problem in China. According to the Chinese Center for Disease Control and Prevention, 111,000 new HIV infections were reported from January to October 2021. In terms of population, the number is more than 10 times that of Japan. Heterosexual intercourse accounted for 71% of cases. In some regions and universities, the Chinese authorities have distributed simple HIV test kits and condoms due to the low awareness of the danger among young people.

Infection Spreads

Once the coronavirus pandemic subsides, the number of Chinese tourists visiting Japan will likely increase again due to rising inbound demand. It is very likely that there are asymptomatic HIV-infected persons among them. If they use sex shops en masse, the spread of HIV infection may occur on a scale far exceeding that of this incident. An unprecedented crisis is approaching in the very near future.

Currently, Japan and China have a delicate relationship over Taiwan. However, apart from such diplomatic conflict, Japan is about to fall into crisis from the night town.
